Western Heritage Saluted, Record Rodeo Purse, Strong Livestock Exhibits, Fun Combined With Business, Stock Sales

Each year in late January and early February Fort Worth relives its Western Heritage to the hilt by hosting the annual Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show. This year the show runs Jan. 28 through Feb. 8, with all events scheduled at the Will Rogers Memorial Complex.

The 91st edition of the stock show is expected to draw over 730,000 persons from across the United States and many foreign countries during its 12-day run. An outstanding family-oriented entertainment program has been planned.

Attending the show is considered by many as a personal annual outing. There's a group from Waco, headed by Roy Durle, that comes each year. For Durle, this will be his 89th consecutive year to attend the Stock Show and Rodeo with his group of seven friends. Their day this year will be the last Sunday.

Two people from out of state have been ordering rodeo tickets for over 35 years. J. A. Griffin from Mississippi and Walter Mayfield from Nebraska travel here each year for the livestock show and attend almost all the rodeo performances. Each is active in livestock breeding programs in their respective areas.

These are representative of a large number of die-hard Fort Worth Stock Show and Rodeo fans from across the country who attend the annual extravaganza despite economic and the so-called "Stock Show" weather.

According to tradition, the city will become a haven of cowboys, cowgirls and lovers of western pageantry during the show's run. Western wear merchants look upon the annual show as a reason for Christmas in January.

Based upon a study commissioned during the 1986 Stock Show, the 12-day program each year generates about $43 million in new money to the area's economy. Using a conservative multiple of the money changing hands at least three times, the economic picture is enhanced by over $130 million.

This year's livestock show and accompanying 28 performances of the World's Original Indoor Rodeo will pay out more than $450,000 in premiums and prize money.

The beginning activity for the two weeks of festivities will be the annual Stock Show All-Weather Parade through downtown Fort Worth. The parade, featuring several hundred participants who represent riding clubs, marching bands and merchants who sponsor horse-drawn vehicles, will step off from the Tarrant County Court-House at 11 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 24. Route of the parade will be south on Houston Street to 9th Street, east to Main Street, then north to the court house. Last year, more than 130,000 persons lined the streets to watch the two-hour parade.

More than 15,000 head of top quality livestock will be exhibited and judged during the Stock Show. Classes are scheduled for beef cattle, dairy cattle, horses, sheep, swine, donkeys, mules, poultry, rabbits and pigeons.

All judging is conducted in the 42 acres of covered arenas and livestock barns at the Will Rogers Complex. In addition to livestock judging, a number of special exhibits are situated in the Cattle Barn to present previews of exotic cattle such as Galbreith, Romagnolo, Blonde d'Aquitaine, White Park, Texas Longhorn and Braford.

The Stock Show also offers a number of educational exhibits free to visitors. The Children's Barnyard, located between the Sheep and Swine Barns features mother farm animals with their young in a barnyard setting. The exhibit also includes the hatching of chicken eggs, giving viewers an opportunity to see the process. Another equally favorite exhibit is the Milking Parlor between Cattle Barn 1 and 2, showing an open viewing area where the dairy cattle are milked each day using modern techniques.

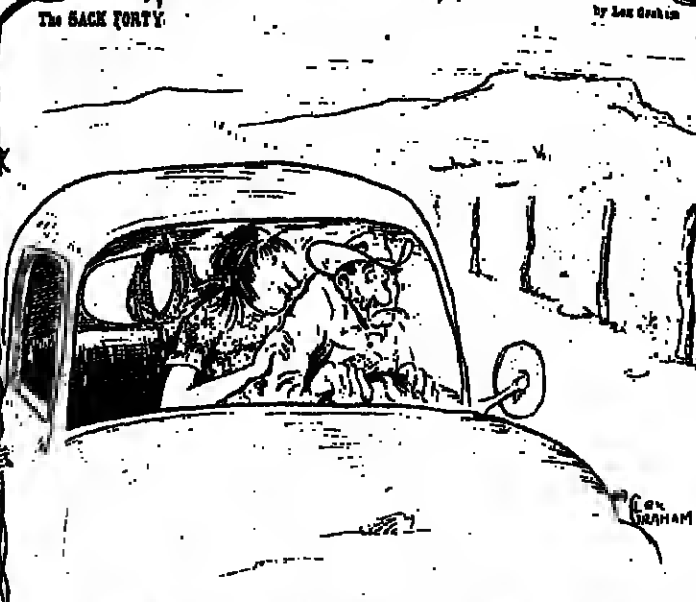

Sanctioned by the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association, the annual Rodeo will feature action-packed events of barrel racing and oodles of bronc riding, bull riding, calf roping, steer wrestling and the Invitational Ranch Girl Barrel Race.

Almost 700 cowboy champions and challengers are entered in the events. Neal Gay of Mesquite, Texas, will serve as rodeo production manager. He will be joined by several other of the nation's most outstanding rodeo stock contractors to assure rodeo fans they will be seeing the best program available in the sport.

A record purse of $255,200 will be available for the 1987 Fort Worth Rodeo, scheduled in 23 action-packed performances during the 91st annual Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show Jan. 28 through Feb. 8 in Will Rogers Coliseum.

The line-up includes all the reigning world champions. Entered are Lawie Field of Elk Ridge, Utah, all around cowboy and saddle bronc champ; Bud Munro of Valley Mills, Texas, bareback champ; Tuff Hedeman of Gainesville, Texas, bull riding champ; Chris Lybbert of Argyle, Texas, calf cent years has been the millions of dollars they are funneling into scholarships to promote education of our youths. We had a cell recently had a reporter on a big daily paper and he was obviously from some benighted part of the country since his questions and his own admission was that he knew nuthin' about stock shows and livestock and agriculture and the folks involved in these enterprises.

One question he had was what is the difference, if any, in the people involved in livestock operations. That was one that was easy. Hardly a person in agriculture these days does things the way Papa did, and we count offhand think of any survivors who operate like Granddad did.

Education is the difference. New techniques, new methods, new products, you name it. They are all changing and for the most part they are things that enable them to hang in there and good times or bad, they manage to make it better for them and the public in general.

In addition to scholarships, these agricultural managers are acquiring now smarts as they attend and enjoy the Stock Shows. In addition to a pleasurable experience the shows provide a learning experience which assures you and me of food in these United States that costs less than anywhere in the world when you consider the percentage of income we pay for it.

Attend the shows. You are sure to learn something and have a heck of a good time in the process!

Ever thine,

The Edditor.

P.S.: Uncle Dunk notes where the stories about the Iran-Contra matter are getting wilder and wilder, proving without a doubt, that a lot of folks in the news media are using their imaginations to cook up these reports. Dunk says it reminds him of those reporters who won Nobel and similar awards for stories they later admitted never happened. Add a grain of salt to your reading, looking and listening and read assured that they are saying may or may not have a relationship with the hard facts - Thanks, Brothers!

The Campbell name has long been associated with quality Herefords. His father, Seth, started ranching around the turn of the century, having grown up in the Hereford business, and after a stint as a Navy pilot in World War II, Campbell purchased the ranch at Dublin, "It's close to the Ft. Lee Campbell, and wife Frances, will have special guests at several Hereford related functions during the Ft. Worth show.

In A Texas Town Brimming With Legends Of Cattle and Cattlemen...

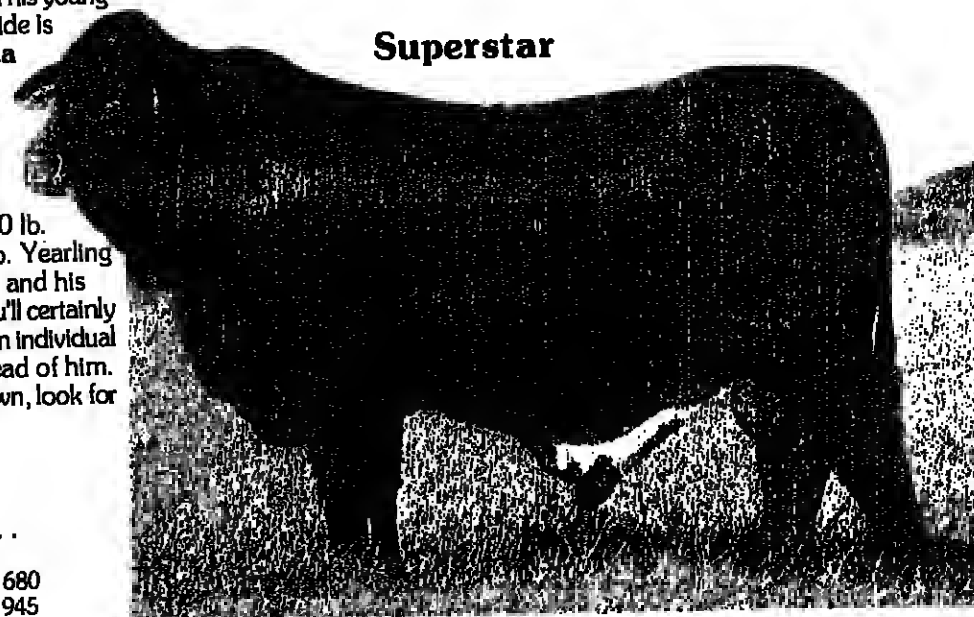

You should expect nothing less at
The Cowtown Classic than a "Superstar".

Thursday - January 29, 1987 - 10:00 A.M. - Barn 6 - S.W. Exposition Showgrounds
FORT WORTH, TEXAS

And a Superstar he is. This young embryo son of Ranger's Pride is out of our famous donor La Ventana. Superstar's genetic strength combined with his top of the line eye appeal make him a real stand-out. Performance for Superstar includes a 680 lb. Weaning Wt. and a 945 lb. Yearling Wt. Study his photograph and his dam's photograph. And you'll certainly agree Superstar is truly an individual with a herd sire future ahead of him. When you come to Cowtown, look for a "Superstar".

La Ventana... The Dam

Photography by Ernie Gill

A super producer both as a donor and in natural production. La Ventana has been used extensively in our embryo program with unquestionable tremendous results. A daughter of Warrior III, La Ventana is out of a Gladiator daughter. Proven bloodlines that work! Fertility, production, marketability... La Ventana exceeds far beyond what is demanded in all categories. In 5 flushes to Ranger's Pride, Matador Warrior, and King Cotton she produced 47 pregnancies. On March 6, 1986 La Ventana had natural twin Levi calves.

White Park Cattle Exhibit At Show

White Park Cattle were first mentioned in England in 1583. The cattle that survived in each generation were superior. The basic qualities of hardiness, livability, disease resistance, fertility, and feed efficiency enabled a part of each generation to survive and reproduce themselves. These basic traits of functional efficiency became more inbred and more firmly established with each succeeding generation.

In 1940 one bull and five cows were sent to the United States as seedstock in the event of a Nazi invasion of England. In about 1960 all Park Cattle in the custody of the United States government were sold to the public. A group of breeders formed the White Park Cattle Association of America in 1976. It is this long period of natural development that has given Park Cattle their genetic, bred-in superiority of functional efficiency.

White Park Cattle, which are predominantly polled, can be easily recognized by their white color and

Youths Important Part Of Fort Worth Stock Show

The Southwestern Exposition and Fair Stock Show annually hosts several thousand young people from age 9 through college who come to the show and present their animals to the judges or exhibit their classroom knowledge by participating in a variety of judging contests to match their learned skills against the years of experience of professionals.

The show, founded in 1898 as a non-profit educational organization, is pleased to offer these youngsters an educational opportunity to show animals and participate in judging team competition.

Scheduled for this show will be a horse judging contest for 4-H Clubs, Future Farmers of America and Texas Junior Quarter Horse Association members, with the winning team representing Texas in world competition. There also will be a 4-H and FFA contest for plant identification.

At the college level will be a Southwest dairy cattle judging contest for senior agricultural college students, a general livestock judging contest for both junior and senior agricultural college students and the intercollegiate meat judging contest.

To help defray expenses of college teams coming here for the meat judging contest, E. M. and Billy Rosenthal of Standard Meat Company offered travel grants to colleges which have teams

Brangus Convention To Praise Past, Challenge Future

Praising the Past and Challenging the Future is the theme that will highlight the 1987 Annual International Brangus Breeders Association (IBBA) Annual Convention and International Brangus Show on February 24-26, 1987 in Houston, TX. Convention activities are at the hotel headquarters, Marriott Hotel at the Astrodome, and the prestigious International Brangus Show is on Thursday, February 26 during the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo in the Astrodome.

As the Brangus breed moves forward and explores new directions, the IBBA will reflect the breed's beginning and recognize the leaders. The IBBA will honor the 14 men who met in July of 1949 to form the Brangus Association.

This year's convention will also offer a challenge to attendees as a group of knowledgeable panelists will discuss the breed's future and that of the beef cattle industry. Ralph Hood, Houstonist and motivational speaker, will inspire and encourage us to live a more productive life. The IBBA membership will hold their annual meeting and elect new leaders. The nine IBBA standing committees will each address the most important factors of the Brangus breed and give direction and insight to Brangus breeders.

Registration will begin on Monday evening, February 24 from 6:00 p.m.-8:00 p.m. and continue through the 26th, at 2:00 p.m. on Monday, Harris Park, Columbus, TX will host a Brangus Production Sale at their ranch in Columbus.

IBBA committee meetings will get underway on Tuesday, February 24 at 8:00 a.m. and continue through Wednesday morning. Tuesday evening, Owl Creek Ranch and Plum Creek Ranch will unite to host a sale at 6:00 p.m. in the Marriott Hotel.

At 11:00 a.m. Wednesday the 26th, the IBBA membership will hold their annual meeting and election of officers. Beginning at 1:00 p.m., an informative panel will be staged with IBBA Executive Vice-President Jerry Morrow serving as moderator. Panel members include Dr. Dell Allen, Manhattan, KS; Shirley Meyer, Watford City, ND; Jerry Peterson, Patwin, KS; and Mick Colvin, West Salem, OH. Following the panel, Larry Bonyshok, Associate Professor, University of Georgia, Athens will present a talk on utilizing the sire summary. Featured speaker, Ralph Hood, will be the final speaker on Wednesday afternoon.

Highlighting the convention activities will be the "Praising the Past" cocktail reception in which the founders of the breed will be recognized and the 1986 Brangus Breeder of the Year will be announced. The reception will be followed by the Mas International Brangus Sale sponsored by the Bluebonnet Brangus Breeders Association.

The best Brangus cattle in the country will be judged before Judge Dr. Dink Kropp, Stillwater, OK at the International Brangus Show. The most prestigious show of its kind for Brangus will be held on Thursday morning at 8:30 a.m. at the Astrodome.

Concluding the annual convention will be an open house meeting on Thursday afternoon the 26th at 3:00 p.m. All activities will be held at the Marriott at the Astrodome unless indicated otherwise.

For additional details or a registration form, please contact Joy Weinheimer at the International Brangus Breeders Association, P.O. Box 696020, San Antonio, TX 78269-6020, 512/696-8231.

Commodity Insight

Week Ending January 8

Clayton Brokerage no longer exists. It was absorbed by a much larger company. It's hard for me to imagine such a thing. For years there have been rumors that it was for sale. But I assumed that those were just rumors and nothing more. Clayton had been around for so long, I just took it for granted that they would continue to operate.

In the 1940's, Roy W. Longstreet founded a firm called Longstreet-Abbott. This company was founded to offer fundamental analysis to commercial firms that were interested in price trends for raw agricultural commodities. Longstreet-Abbott was soon providing research for companies such as Pillsbury, Ralston-Purina, and other industry leaders.

Clayton Brokerage was founded by Longstreet because he wanted to offer the public the same high quality fundamental analysis that the large commercial firms were enjoying. Clayton Brokerage was nothing more than an offshoot of Longstreet-Abbott. Clayton became a brokerage house for commercials, hedgers and the general trading public.

Clayton Brokerage was an industry leader for years and years. There was a time, not too long ago, when most commodity brokers and research analysts had roots leading back to the Clayton organization. Clayton Brokerage had a profound effect upon the futures industry well into the mid-1970's.

Roy W. Longstreet made his fortune trading the futures markets back in the 1960's. Those were the days when a buck was a buck. It was also the days when the only futures markets that were trading were grains, livestock and cotton. There were some tropical commodities being traded, such as sugar, cocoa, orange juice, and coffee. The metals that were traded were silver, copper and platinum. Gold futures were not traded in 1960's.

Longstreet had a significant influence upon the commodity markets in his day. He was held in awe. He was considered one of the big time speculators during the 1960's. It has been said that trading in the grain pits came to a halt the day he visited the floor of the Chicago Board of Trade. The floor traders had all heard about him and his exploits, but they never had a chance to see him.

As the company Longstreet-Abbott was phased out, Longstreet founded Clayton Commodity Service. The function of this firm was to provide research for Clayton Brokerage and do brokerage business of its own.

In 1970, I was hired by Longstreet to work for Clayton Commodity Service. I had the opportunity to work very closely with the Chief. He was called the Chief out of respect and admiration. No one called him anything but the Chief.

I worked directly under the Chief while I was employed by Clayton Commodity Service. I gained a wealth of knowledge about market fundamentals, trading and psychology from him. It was invaluable.

The Chief had one of the best analytical commodity minds that I've ever run across. I realize that more now, than I did as a very green and uninformed 24 year old. The Chief could just look at those markets and all those dancing numbers and tell you where prices would be in the next few months.

He eventually decided to write a book about his experiences in the marketplace. After all, Longstreet-Abbott, Clayton Brokerage, and Clayton Commodity Service were all direct result of his efforts and dominant personality. That's worthy of a book.

His book is entitled "Viewpoints on Commodity Trading." The book deals with self-motivation. The book is also concerned with harnessing one's emotions and maintaining a positive outlook on life. It is actually a book on self-improvement and basic psychology.

In the early 1970's the Chief and I were in the orange juice market. The Chief was convinced that the nearby orange juice contracts would gain in price compared to the back months. He was right. Sizeable profits were soon built up on this trade.

Then, disaster struck. Over a weekend, President Nixon ordered a price freeze on all commodities. This was unprecedented action on the part of a President of the United States. A conservative President at that.

For several days, the nearby orange juice contracts went limit down and the back month contracts went limit up. It took us days to liquidate that mess. It was a nightmare.

I walked into the Chief's office after the fallout from the orange juice trade was over. I said, "Chief, I just can't believe we got hit so hard. I just can't believe we had such huge profits. To lose it so quickly is just unbelievable. I don't know if I'm cut out for this business. Losing all that money was a killer."

The Chief, then in his 70's, was seated behind his enormous wrap-around desk. He looked up and stared at me for a moment. After what seemed like an eternity he said, "The greatest loss is the loss of self confidence. Money comes and goes. He glanced downward again at the charts that he was studying. I turned and walked out of his office.

Longstreet-Abbott is gone, so is Clayton Commodity Service. But the Chief is still around. And I swear to you he looks no older now than he did when I worked with him in the early 1970's. And he still trades commodities.

The new tax law has an amplified things that it now takes three people to figure what you owe - you, your accountant, and the accountant's psychiatrist.

The psychiatrist is just there for moral support - to say comforting things like, "There, there. Now, everything's going to be all right."

There is so much aabbing going on in accountants' offices that a new asop opera cult could spring up. "Days of Our Lives" may soon be replaced by "Dang-er, It's Know."

It will feature a character everybody knows by the initials CPA, which stands for Constantly Perplexed American.

CPA could be either male or female but would have no time for romantic scenes in the series, just like in real life. Everything would revolve around the intense, deadly aarius, life-threatening drama of breaking a code: the most cunning and clever end ever devised, the Tax Code.

The new simplified tax plan is the largest volume of works ever written in the history of the U.S. Experts tell us that it will be exceeded only by one publication - The New Simplified Tax Code revision.

The revision will be necessary to close the loopholes that you pay n CPA to find before the government tightens it into a poole.

I just had the new plan explained to me and I recommend it to anybody who has a bad case of the hicups.

They'll soon be calling the plan the simplified Mayflower Tax because the whole country will have to come norross.

The accountants, CPA's, and economists are all giving us useless advice in my opinion. They're trying to tell us what to do with our money that we've already done something with.

It's like Mark Twain said, "The difference between a taxidermist and a taxman is that the taxidermist takes away your skin."

And crusty old Fred Allard remarked, "A tax plan is like a laundry list - either way, you're likely to lose your shirt."

Did you ever notice how these plebs change? Basically they take the tax off things that have been taxed for many years and put the tax on things that have never been taxed before.

It's like trying to explain the old adage, "Two can live as cheap as one" to a couple who has just had twins.

Ask not what your country can do for you, my friends, because it has already done it.

Not that I'm complaining, you understand. These new plans often have some very pleasant surprises attached to them. A fellow told me he found that something he had been deducting from his taxes was actually going to become deductible. - Copyright 1986 Doc Blakely Pokin' Fun Newspaper Syndicate, Doc Blakely, 2404 Fairway Dr., Wharton, TX 77486. 409/532-4502.

Washington, Jan. 7 (USDA) — U.S. department of agriculture estimated 18,800 head of dairy cattle were slaughtered in federally inspected slaughter plants during the week ending 12-20-1986 as a result of the dairy reduction program. The cumulative total of cattle slaughtered under the program from April 1 through December 20 was estimated at 919,000 head. "Punch-out" Ear Tag On The Market This Fall

Cody, Wyoming — A new concept in cattle ear tags has been developed by Norm Hayes, a Cody, Wyoming, plastics innovator and cattleman.

Called Dat-A-Tag, the patented design allows a cattleman to create his own identification when he needs it, eliminating the usual wait for pre-numbered tags and the waste of unused numbers at year-end, according to Hayes.

"Each tag has prenumbered knockout windows for a digital aligned letter-number combination. The user simply punches out the appropriate windows to create whatever combination he wants. With one alpha and three number windows, he can create up to 26,974 combinations — and never waste a tag," Hayes said.

Profitable Heifer Feeding Topic Of Management Brochure

Kalamazoo, Michigan — Cattleman know the economic advantage to feeding heifers is to turn lower purchase prices into a plus by feeding the cattle as efficiently as possible, says James R. Piotrowski, D.V.M., technical services veterinarian for The Upjohn Company.

"However, university and commercial feed trials show that spayed heifers perform less efficiently (seven percent lower rate of gain) than intact, open heifers in the feedyard," he explains. Trial data comparing the performance of intact heifers fed MGA with spayed heifers using ovarian tissue implants is included in this brochure. Feedlot heifer management, including feeding of MGA (longgested needed) to keep heifers from heat cycling, is also discussed by a university extension veterinarian and a feedlot manager. (CONT. ON PAGE 26)

Antibodies against both K99 plus antigens and all of the somatic antigens of Escherichia coli cultures make ECOLIZER™ the most complete E. coli antibody product available. Administered orally to newborn calves, ECOLIZER™ prevents E. coli scours, the major killer of calves in their first week of life. ECOLIZER™ is an ideal routine scour prevention method when cows have not received Pili Shield™. It insures survival when calves don't ingest enough colostrum.

Armstrong Tires Sponsoring Future Farmer Awards

Armstrong Tire Company announced that it has become a national sponsor of Future Farmers of America (FFA) 1987 American Farmer Degree Recognition Awards, as part of its commitment to American agriculture. The American Farmer Degree is the fourth and highest level of achievement for FFA members, explained Armstrong's Alan M. Bennett, vice president, marketing.

"America's farmers have established a proud tradition for going the distance for getting the job done, through good times and bad," said Mr. Bennett. "Many farmers are going through some of the bad times right now and American agriculture is undergoing major restructuring. Its future now is in the hands of a new generation represented by the best of FFA."

Mr. Bennett said that Armstrong Tire Company supports the FFA program, which is available in secondary schools, colleges and universities throughout the U.S. "The FFA degree program provides a learning concept for future farmers by offering strong, viable incentives for individual members learning to apply classroom education to their work experience; emphasizing entrepreneurship, profit-oriented goals and an understanding of the free-enterprise system," he explained.

Armstrong Tire Company is a major supplier of automobile passenger and truck tires, military and agricultural tires, with production and distribution facilities located throughout the United States. It is a subsidiary of The Armstrong Rubber Company, a diversified, multinational Fortune 500 company that also produces specialized elastomers and chemicals and manufactures a variety of automotive products for original equipment and replacement markets.

applying RECLAIM alone at 1/2 lb. per acre or in a tank mix that includes 1/2 lb. of RECLAIM and 1/2 lb. of Grazon P. The tank mix will be recommended in all cases where pricklypear is a target along with mesquite, says Tom Fields, Dallas, marketing manager for Dow.

Pickup (Grazon P) kills pricklypear but RECLAIM shows little activity against pear, he explained. Even when pricklypear is not a problem, the tank mix of ephedrine with equal amounts of picloram (1/2 + 1/2) has proven to be equivalent to a total of 1/2 lb/acre of ephedrine alone.

The tank mix of applying a mixture of 1/2 lb. of RECLAIM and 1/2 lb. of Grazon P is estimated to be between $22 and $23/acre in West Texas. The cost of applying 1/2 lb. of RECLAIM plus 1/2 lb/acre of Grazon P is forecast at between $25 and $26/acre.

In South Texas, where ranchers deal with mixed brush that includes many species other than mesquite, the recommendation will be double the West Texas rate or 1/2 lb/acre of RECLAIM plus 1/2 lb/acre of Grazon P.

Control as high as 85 percent has been recorded with application of RECLAIM on mesquite. However, in more than 75 trials, the average kill was 65 percent for both the RECLAIM + Grazon P tank mix and for the 1/2 lb. rate of RECLAIM alone. Control at that level should result in improved grazing for as long as 10 years, compared with five to seven years for the best alternatives currently available, says Dr. J. B. Grubbs, Dallas, a range scientist and herbicide specialist for Dow.

James Vance, who manages the Chaparral and Cuervo Spade ranches for Spade Ranches, noticed a different mode of action when he applied RECLAIM to 60 acres of mesquite northwest of Tucuman, N.M., in 1985 under an Experimental Use Permit.

"You could see the effect of the spray much sooner," Vance says. "It did not defoliate. Leaves turned brown and just continued to hang on the plants. In other treatments, you could spray and knock the leaves off but not get good control." Where RECLAIM was applied, "there was an 80 percent kill, maybe a little more," Vance reports.

Timing of application of RECLAIM appears to be less critical than is timing for application of other mesquite herbicides. Treatments in the fall have been effective. Additional tests are being applied this (1986) fall.

Glyphosate has been tested alone and in combination with picloram for more than 10 years. "With Dowco 290 (now

The Blu River Division of Reinko Manufacturing Company promised to add to the overall load-carrying ability of both standard size and compact pickup trucks.

E-Z Load Ramps, available in either 42- or 48-inch widths, fold and store on the inside of the tailgate of the vehicle while keeping the loadbed area of the truck free and clear according to Mr. Jim Harder, Blu River products manager for Reinko. Maximum load capacity for the ramp is 750 pounds.

"The E-Z Load Ramp is surprisingly lightweight considering the load capacity of the unit," Harder states. "Made of high strength steel, the ramp is capable of loading lawn tractors, all-terrain vehicles, golf carts, etc., as well as improving the overall utility of any standard size or compact pickup truck."

The ramp features universal mounting instructions and requires less than 8 inches of bed space when folded for transport, Harder relates.

For more information regarding the Blu River E-Z Load Ramps, contact Mr. Jim Harder, Reinko Manufacturing Company, Blu River Division, P.O. Box 558, Deshler, Nebraska 68340.

John Cargile, San Angelo Rancher and livestock commission operator, has employed about every method known in his 14-year program to manage brush. Brush management is essential to preserve productivity of rangeland, he believes, but he's concerned about rising costs. He stands beside a mesquite tree killed with application of herbicides. On a test plot on his ranch, an application of 1/2 lb. per acre of the new herbicide RECLAIM mixed with 1/2 lb/acre of Grazon P (picloram) was judged to have killed 65 percent of the mesquite in a September 1986 evaluation.

Simultaneously, he has worked in the molded plastics industry, with Y-Tex Lone Star tags being his best known endeavor. Hayes said he expects to have nationwide distribution by this fall.

for a replaceable insecticide insert. The chemical-impregnated tag hangs right against the ear, where it does the most good. The insecticide tag can be applied, removed or replaced without cutting another hole in the ear. And it's less expensive than buying special ear tags for insect control," Hayes said.

Available in five bright colors, Dat-A-Tag is made of new, ether-bonded polyurethane which is more durable and stays flexible in sub-zero temperatures.

Dat-A-Tag is inserted through thick cartilage at the top of the ear so it is less subject to snags and ougeling. It hangs in front of the ear, riding over the long ear hair for maximum visibility.

"We've developed a heavy-duty applicator to punch through the heavy cartilage easily. The plunger releases automatically, letting the operator get away quickly," Hayes noted.

and convenience and economy, says Phillips.

Features include a mill with 68 cutting hammers for a more uniform grind; continuous recirculation action for thorough blending; hydraulic operation for smooth feeding; fingertip control and fast unloading.

A big advantage of hydraulically operated feedmaking with a Mix-All is reduced maintenance, Phillips notes. Field engineers have eliminated many parts that normally cause problems, such as the drive belts, chains and gear clusters on the feeding attachments and loading mechanisms.

Model 125 has a capacity of 150 bushels, and model 170 has a capacity of 185 bushels.

For additional information on these Mix-Alls, contact Richard Hurdock, Gehl Company, West Bend, WI 53090, (414) 334-9461.

Industry Leaders Selected For Polled Hereford Honors

Six leaders in the Polled Hereford breed and the best cattle industry have been selected for induction in the Polled Hereford Hall of Fame and Hall of Merit. The induction ceremonies will take place at the 64th National Polled Hereford Convention-Sale-Sale, Feb. 16-19 in Jackson, Miss. The annual event will be held in conjunction with the Dixie National Livestock Show.

The honored hats of two Polled Hereford breeders will be added to the Hall of Fame collection as a tribute to their outstanding contributions to the breed's progress. Joining this elite group will be the late W.L. Tester, Minnerville, N.C., and Jack Oleson of Longmont, Colo.

The Hall of Merit Award will be presented to four beef industry leaders for dedication to their respective fields. They are Dr. C. J. Brown, Fayetteville, Ark., for education and research; the late Jim Flanagan, Kismet, Fla., communications; Dr. Louis Wlas, Mississippi State, Miss., public affairs; and Robert Volk, Omaha, Neb., youth activities.

Tester's Will-Via Polled Hereford Farm started using Polled Herefords in its commercial herd in 1946, and entered the purebred business soon after. Tester was a believer in basics, and began keeping performance records on his herd some 25 years ago.

The man who introduced Victor Domino cattle to the western U.S. is the other Hall of Fame inductee. Jack Oleson brought the linebred cattle to his Colorado ranch where they fit well into his program that stressed maternal ability and growth.

Hall of Merit honoree Dr. C. J. Brown joined the faculty of the University of Arkansas in 1954. He has a wide range of accomplishments, working primarily with beef cattle. He initiated one of the early beef bull sales in the U.S. in which performance records were made available on bulls, and pioneered the use of linear measurements as objective measures of size and shape in beef cattle.

Jim Flanagan's career as a staunch proponent of local cattle through the pages of The Florida Cattleman spanned some 22 years, ending abruptly with his death in 1985. He was also a founding member and leader in the

Limousin Survey Indicates Widespread Commercial Acceptance

Denver — The results of a survey sent to 14,000 owners of registered Limousin bulls indicates the breed has established a broad base of support among commercial cattlemen across the country, and that Limousin is definitely viewed as a leader in the production of lean beef.

The information in the survey was compiled by the North American Limousin Foundation (NALF) as part of an effort to increase communication with the commercial cattle industry, as well as to gather information for a comprehensive Limousin Feeder Calf (CONT. ON PAGE 30)

National Gelbvieh Sale Stated During Stock Show

The National Gold Exploer Gelbvieh Sale will eliminate Gelbvieh activities during the National Western Stock Show in Denver. The sale follows on the heels of the NWSS Gelbvieh Show, which based on a preview of on-site sales, will be one of the strongest Gelbvieh events over, according to James A. Spawo, Executive Director of the American Gelbvieh Ass'n. The sale, sponsored by AGA, will feature several major show winners this season, including champions from this fall's National Show. The sale is slated for Jan. 23 at 2 p.m. Meanwhile, over 240 head have been entered to compete in the Gelbvieh Show, scheduled to begin at 8 a.m. on Jan. 22. Ric Hoyt, a noted judge of many breeds from Burns, Ore., has been tapped to do the judging honors. A Gelbvieh Pen Bull Show will be held on Jan. 19 at 1:30 p.m.

Social activities for Gelbvieh enthusiasts will focus on a banquet at 7 p.m. on Jan. 22 at the Airport Embassy Suites, Hotel, which is Stock Show headquarters for the Gelbvieh breed. "Because the Stock Show traditionally attracts the top Gelbvieh cattle and brings in substantial numbers of owners of all breeds, it is a premier show for the Gelbvieh breed," concluded Spawo.

Gelbvieh Ass'n Hits Record

Denver — The American Gelbvieh Ass'n has set an all-time record for registrations during the 1986 calendar year. The association processed 16,142 applications during the year to continue its steady growth pattern. The previous record was 16,110 head recorded in 1985.

Kansas ranked first in the nation in 1986 Gelbvieh registrations, followed by Nebraska, South Dakota and California.

Another milestone was set in 1986 for inquiries. AGA received 2,394 inquiries requesting information about Gelbvieh cattle. This volume was also the largest calendar year total in the history of the association.

National AGA President Dotti Knoet, Clinton, La., remarked, "We are ecstatic about the growth of our registrations, but these inquiries are just as important. Cattle producers are looking hard at what breeds work and are looking at Gelbvieh. The next few years will be even more profitable for our members as Gelbvieh numbers continue to expand within the U.S."

Gelbvieh cattle originated in the Bavaria region of West Germany. AGA was founded in July 1971, before any Gelbvieh were born or imported here.

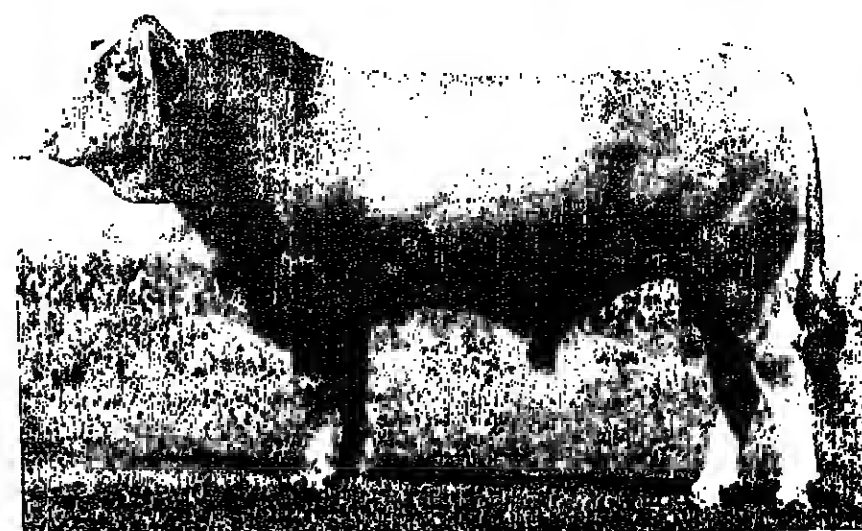

The association has enjoyed a steady growth since that time. It lists over 1,300 active members throughout the United States. For more information on Gelbvieh cattle, contact AGA, 8001 National Western Drive, Denver, CO 80216.

Feeder Cattle Sharply Higher

St. Joseph, Jan. 9 (USDA) — National feeder cattle and calf summary week ended Jan. 9, 1987 reports this week's 217,700, last week 213,000; year ago 205,300. Feeder cattle prices jumped sharply higher this week as buyers competed aggressively for expanded numbers. According to the USDA livestock market news service, feeder steers and heifers sold 1.00-3.00 higher, instances 4.00-5.00 higher than three weeks ago when most markets had sufficient numbers to establish price levels. Optimism displayed by feeder buyers far outweighed any supply derived from a modest price gain on slaughter steers and heifers this week. Numbers showed a considerable jump upward in the Texas panhandle, western Oklahoma, and New Mexico area where this week's movement was the largest ever recorded since 1981A began reporting these sales.
